PHENIX FLOORING RECEIVES ENVIRONMENTAL PRODUCT DECLARATION

Four LVT products earn certification; represents organization’s commitment to sustainability

Dalton, GA (May 23, 2019) – Phenix Flooring recently announced four Rigid Core LVT products received an Environmental Product Declaration \(EPD\). Certified styles from Phenix’s Rigid Core LVT collection include Momentum, Expedition, Impulse and Velocity.

The Environmental Product Declaration is an internationally-accepted, published report detailing the lifecycle story of a product. By selecting products with an EPD, builders can potentially earn more credits toward LEED Certification or simply understand the environmental impact of the products they’re choosing.

According to Shelton Group’s 2014 EcoPulseä Survey, a record-breaking 70% of Americans are searching for greener products. By earning an Environmental Product Declaration (EPD) from UL Environment, Phenix Flooring signals their commitment to environmental stewardship and sustainability leadership. EPDs provide buyers with comprehensive information on a product’s environmental impact, including its carbon footprint, impact on acidification, eutrophication, depletion of natural resources, energy consumption and more.

UL Environment, a division of UL (Underwriters Laboratories), works to advance global sustainability, environmental health and safety by supporting the growth and development of environmentally preferable products, services and organizations.
